NATURAL SCIENCE

DARK MATTER

PREMISE

We have not directly detected dark matter as a particle. Its existence is inferred from gravitational effects on things we can observe, including galaxies, galaxy clusters and gravitational lensing.

QUESTION

When is indirect evidence strong enough to believe that something exists?